By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

FRANKFORT ON THE MAIN,
Aug. 23—German scientists and technicians who worked on V-weapons and other phases of German armament will be hired by the United States Government, it was announced today by headquarters of USFET.

These scientists, some of whom, it is believed, participated in German experiments on atomic energy, will be taken to the United States to work under the direction of Army, Navy and air force experts. They will utilize the information that they have obtained in their own research but will not have access to American military secrets.
